COMPARATIVE MARKET ANALYSIS

THE SHORT VERSION

Your house sits in a pocket of Pinellas County where condition is doing almost all of the pricing work. Every comparable sale above $288 per square foot in the last six months was either fully renovated or had a pool. Every sale below that was dated.

That is good news, because it means the gap between what your house is worth today and what it is worth after a modest amount of work is unusually wide, and the work required is cosmetic rather than structural.

I pulled your permit history from Pinellas County, so two of the usual unknowns are already answered: the roof was replaced in 2015 and the sewer line in 2017. Both are documented below. The ranges assume average interior condition for a home of this age. I have not been inside yet, and once the tenants are out and I walk it I will tighten these numbers.

YOUR PROPERTY

BED / BATH 2 / 2	HEATED SQFT 1,253	YEAR BUILT 1958	LOT 7,479 sf
PARKING Carport	POOL None	FLOOD ZONE Zone X	2025 TAXES $5,308

What the house has going for it

- A bonus room with French doors off the living area. From the 2018 photos it reads as an enclosed sun room with windows on two walls and its own exterior door. I do not see a closet in any frame, so marketing it as a third bedroom is unlikely without adding one. It is still real, usable space, an office, a den, or a guest room, and most two bedroom homes at this price do not have it.
- Quiet dead end street, under ten minutes to Indian Rocks Beach. Both are real selling points here and both go in the listing.
- Two storage sheds, one wired with working outlets. A powered workshop shed is a genuine draw for a certain buyer, and it costs nothing to feature.
- Parking for four. Carport plus driveway space for three more. That matters on a house with no garage.

Three things worth knowing

- You are in FEMA Zone X, outside the high risk flood area. In Pinellas County right now that is a genuine advantage, and it is one of the first things buyers here check.
- You are in a non evacuation zone and on county water and sewer, not a well or septic system. Combined with the flood zone above, that is a strong insurance and storm profile for a Pinellas listing right now.
- The county lowered its 2026 preliminary value on the property to $258,753 from $289,312. That is the appraiser marking this pocket down, and buyers will have seen the same thing. It does not set your sale price, but it will come up.

11309 115th St	2/1	1,128	1958	$146,000	$129.43	—	Excluded. Investor purchase, never marketed. Now relisted at $349,000 after renovation.

*Effective price nets out seller paid closing credits, which inflate the recorded sale price. Two of these sales carried credits of 2.3% and 6.0%.

The addresses above link to each full listing with photos, so you can see the condition of every home I compared yours to. One thing to expect: MLS rules limit what closed sale prices may be shown publicly, so those pages display the original asking price rather than the final sale price. The real sale prices are in the table above.

WHAT YOU ARE COMPETING AGAINST

ADDRESS	STATUS	BD/BA	SQFT	PRICE	NOTES
11601 109th St	Pending	3/1.5	1,073	$339,900	Updated kitchen, terrazzo floors
11309 115th St	Pending	3/2	1,128	$349,000	Gut renovation, converted to 3 bedroom
12425 Ridge Rd	Pending	3/1	1,300	$369,000	Pool, open concept, quartz
11354 123rd Ter N	Active	3/2	1,458	$378,000	Fully renovated, new roof, vacant
12361 114th St	Active	3/2	1,339	$400,000	Pool, on market 276 days, tenant occupied

The useful detail here

There are only two active listings a buyer in this size and age range can walk through today, and both are three bedrooms. Right now there is no active two bedroom competition in this pocket at all. Inventory is thin, which works in your favor on timing.

WHAT YOUR HOUSE IS WORTH

PATH	ESTIMATED RANGE	WHAT IT MEANS
Sell as-is to a cash investor	$240,000 – $265,000	Fastest and simplest. No repairs, no cleaning, no showings, no financing risk. You give up real money for the convenience.
Sell as-is on the open market	$265,000 – $290,000	Clean the house out, list it dated. Buyer plans to update over time. Smaller buyer pool, longer timeline, more inspection negotiation.
Light make-ready, then sell My recommendation	$300,000 – $320,000	Clean out, interior paint, flooring, landscaping, deep clean, minor repairs. Roughly $12,000 to $25,000 of work against $40,000 to $50,000 of additional value.
Full renovation	$345,000 – $365,000	Kitchen, baths, roof, systems. I do not recommend this while you are deployed. Too much money, too many decisions, too far away.

Why the light make-ready is the right call

Your 2018 lease listing describes new flooring, fresh paint, new cabinets and new countertops done that summer, and the photos back that up. The interior is not 1958 original, it is eight years old with tenant wear on it. You are refreshing finishes rather than replacing them, which is a meaningful advantage.

Two honest caveats from those photos. The kitchen cabinets are dark and the counters are laminate, while the homes selling above $288 per square foot around you have quartz or stone. And the bathroom does not appear to have been part of that 2018 work. Neither needs a renovation to sell, but both are places where a buyer will push on price, so it is better to know now than to hear it in an inspection response.

The spread between selling dirty and selling clean in this neighborhood is wider than the cost of getting it clean. It is also the version of this that requires the fewest decisions from you, because it is a defined scope of work with a fixed quote rather than an open ended renovation. From the street the highest return items are exterior paint and the front lawn.

WHAT THE COUNTY PERMIT RECORDS SHOW

I pulled the permit history from Pinellas County. Two permits are on file for your property, and both were closed out properly.

APRIL 2015 · FULL ROOF REPLACEMENT

Dimensional Tamko shingles, 25 squares, tear off and replace, permitted and finaled. Your roof is about eleven years old.

This is the most important fact in this report. In Florida, roof age decides whether a buyer can get an insurance policy, and insurance decides whether they can get a loan. At eleven years on a dimensional shingle roof you are comfortably inside what carriers will write, which keeps your house in the full retail buyer pool instead of limiting it to cash investors.

FEBRUARY 2017 · SEWER LINE REPLACEMENT

Eighty feet of sewer line replaced, permitted and finaled.

For a 1958 house this matters more than it sounds. Original cast iron drain lines are a common and expensive failure in homes of this age in Pinellas County, and buyers' inspectors look for it specifically. Yours was replaced and documented nine years ago. That goes in the listing.

What is not in the record

There is no permit on file for an air conditioner, water heater, electrical panel, or windows going back to at least 2001. Neighbors on your street have air conditioner permits on record from 2001 onward, so if yours had been replaced with a permit, it would appear.

Plan on the air conditioner being at or near the end of its life. A replacement runs roughly $6,000 to $9,000 installed. That is a budget line, not a threat to the sale, and it is the kind of thing we can address with a credit at closing rather than cash out of pocket. I will confirm the actual age from the data plate when I walk the property.

HOW I GOT HERE

Sales data pulled from Stellar MLS on August 30, 2026, filtered to single family homes within one half mile, closed in the previous six months, 1,002 to 1,504 heated square feet, built 1943 to 1973. Property characteristics from Pinellas County public records, parcel 16-30-15-64062-010-0070. One recorded sale was excluded as a non arm's length investor transfer that was never exposed to the market. Two sales were adjusted downward for seller paid closing credits. Permit history pulled from the Pinellas County permitting portal covering 1960 through August 2026.

This analysis is an opinion of value based on market data, not an appraisal, and it assumes average condition for the age and type of home. It is not a guarantee of sale price. Interior condition, roof and system age, and market movement between now and closing will all affect the result. Nothing here is tax or legal advice.
